

STARVING MILLIONS.
THE FAMINE IN INDIA AND THE FEARFUL HORRORS IT ENTAILS.
Tremendous Population Composed of Laborers Who Live From Hand to Mouth.
The Bare Existence of a Peaceful Land, Plagued and Scarcely Content People Who Never Have Sufficient to Eat or to Wear.

There can be no longer room for doubt that India is just entering what may prove one of the worst famines in her history. With a million and a quarter people on the verge of starvation in the Deccan alone, and the famine spreading to other great agricultural provinces, the civilized world may be shocked by a recurrence of such a terrible famine. In the famines of 1780 and 1876, when people died by the thousands or tens of thousands, but by the millions. The population of British India is now estimated at two hundred and forty million people—twice as many as the Roman Empire, according to Gibbon's estimate, had at its period of greatest strength. Nearly all the people of India are engaged in agriculture, and their food is produced on the soil of the country. At best, their condition is miserably miserable from any standpoint an American could take a look at. In the famine of 1876, it is estimated that one million people died in India. HIS RISK FOR NOTHING.
THE MAN WHO JUMPED FROM A FLYING TRAIN RECAPTURED.
His Appearance at Livermore Excited Judge Newton's Suspicion and He Sent Officers After Him.
THE PRISONER CONFESSES ALL.

During all this commotion, however, the "Cooching" manager to keep not only safe but comfortable. Drinking distilled mineral water, re-feeding him with a good meal, and taking his regular allowance of food, he defied not only justice but the accompanying vigilance of the police. He had the merest suspicion of a general English stationmaster could not catch him.

For the Hindu died easily, and fortunately he did not mind it much. In the West people of our superior race take a grim and desperate hold on life. No matter what their religion or conviction, they rarely die if it is possible to avoid it. But the "wild Hindu," after a volley or so of British lead has convinced him that he must starve without making too much noise about it, he dies easily.

The starving Hindu dies in famine time with no more ado than he makes in the West. He does not mind it much. In the West people of our superior race take a grim and desperate hold on life. But the "wild Hindu," after a volley or so of British lead has convinced him that he must starve without making too much noise about it, he dies easily.

Pushing the Hot Investigation.
The grand jury continued yesterday its vigorous investigation of the Illinois case. It is estimated that the grand jury has heard evidence from a large number of witnesses, and that the case will be closed in a few days.

What is a Democrat?
The question of Democracy is one of the most important of the day. It is a question that has been asked for many years, and it is one that will continue to be asked for many years to come.

How He Paid the Freighter.
A methodical preacher was called upon to marry a well-to-do couple in the city. Before starting he went into a shop to get a pair of shoes for his wife, incidentally remarking to the merchant that he was on his way to the city.

How many deaths can be traced to a "light cold"? The record of mortalities in the city of New York is a sad one. It is a record that should be a warning to all of us.

EXAMPLES OF LONGEVITY.
IT COMES ALIKE TO EVERY CLASS AND NATION.
What is Good and Healthy for One Person is Often Very Disagreeable to Another.

Among the examples of moderation in diet, Miguel Blos, of San Salvador, in Guatemala, is a case. He was born in 1800, and is now 100 years old. He is still in the full force of his mind, and he is still in the full force of his body.

Washington County Fiscal Court has agreed to levy 25 cents on the dollar to pay the expenses of the county. This is a very large sum, and it is a very large sum.

What is most strange about longevity is that it comes, like the dew of heaven, to every class. It comes to the rich and the poor, to the old and the young, to the healthy and the sick.

A Word to the Thoughtless.
It is often said that the law was made for the honest man, and it is true. But it is also true that the law was made for the dishonest man, and it is true.
